

Featuring:

Robin Mesch

Financial Fishing

Women of the pits: Shattering the Glass Ceiling in Financial Markets salutes the enduring strength of the human spirit. The book profiles 15 extraordinary women who have plunged into the financial markets armed only with their wits and experience.

"Through 15 finely detailed profiles, Koppel delves into the lives of a diverse group of women who each brings a unique history as she enters her trading career. And each ultimately discovers-on her own terms-an inner drive that keeps her repeatedly challenging the pitfalls of the marketplace." From the Forward by T. Eric Kilcollin, Pres. & CEO, Chicago Mercantile Exchange

"These women are of the pits but hardly in the pits. Mara Koppel shows us the exiting world of trading by examining the women who have excelled in it. In so doing, she also examines how women become successful. All women, in all careers, need to use this book as their blueprint for achieving what they want from life." Pam Lontos, President, Lontos Sales & Motivation, Inc.

"This book sure tells it like it is." Elaine Garzarelli, President Garzarelli Capital

"Great book! Women of the Pits is an inspiration to women who aspire to establish themselves in a historically male-dominated industry." Marshal Stein, Senior Vice President, Rand Financial Services

Dearborn Financial Publishing, Inc., 1998.